How to play:

1. Find a die and choose a LEGO piece for each player. It can be a brick or even your favourite Mini figure! Place them at the start of the game.
2. Decide who will move first by having all players roll the die. The player who rolls the highest number goes first.
3. Take turns in rolling the die. The number of dots that appear on the top side of the die is the number of spaces forward that the player who rolls can move. So if the die shows three dots, the player can move three spaces.
4. The first player to make it to the finish is the winner.

Real-life

Adventures

Weather conditions can have all sorts of affect on the environment. This issue, we're going to take a look at extreme weather from around the world!

The sun's high temperatures can create deserts and dry out rivers. A lack of water can seriously affect local plants and wildlife.

Weather

Clouds form when warm air rises. As the air expands and gets colder, it can no longer hold in its moisture and rain begins to fall.

Scientists use all sorts of special equipment to monitor and predict weather patterns, including balloons!

Tornadoes are often formed when strong winds collide with thunder storms. A column of air rises that can travel at 200 mph and cause all sorts of damage!

Lightning strikes occur when thunderstorms collide. Electrical charges form and then strike the ground with over one million watts of energy!

Famous hurricanes have been given such odd names as George, Keith, Ivan, Bill, Wendy, Gordon, Isaac and Charlie!

Snow storms and freezing conditions are extremely hazardous. Hail stones, snow, frost and high winds can cause problems for drivers as roads become slippery and visibility becomes poor.

Hurricanes are very strong storms that begin out at sea and often travel inland. At sea they can create huge tidal waves and cause damage to ships of all sizes!
